DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 7/21/03 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
- 4. Claims 1-3, 7-13, 15, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sweatte, US Patent No. 6,335,688 in view of Ballantine et al, WO 00/28484.

 Sweatte discloses a method and system for airport security comprising: a check-in counter 3 for passengers to scan their passport, the passenger is also required to submit to a positive ID check. This ID check is in the form of a fingerprint scan, an eye retinal scan, a hand scan, a palmprint, a hand scan, a finger length scan, or any other positive identification means including DNA or other means for positive identification. After the passenger has had positive ID data taken, a PASS system optionally takes a current photo of the passenger, and presents all the data to a computer database. At this point, the data is checked against Police, department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), FBI, INTERPOL, immigration, customs, postal service, or other databases. If law enforcement databases are remote from the airport, the data can be transmitted by modem, LAN, WAN, Internet, or any data transmission other means (see figures 1 and 2; col. 5, line 56 to col. 6, line 29).

Sweatte teaches that a positive ID is required in order to issue the ticket, but fails to disclose or fairly suggests withholding issuance of the ticket the user is not approved.

Ballantine et al disclose self-service terminal for controlling access to a facility comprising: means for identifying a user before issuing a ticket to the user wherein the ticket is not issued if the user is not approved (see page 10, lines 13-23).

In view of Ballantine et al's teachings, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system Sweatte to authenticate users before issuing tickets to enter the facility. Such modification would provide better security by identifying individuals at the entrance gate so that wanted criminals and would be criminals are identified before entering the facility. Therefore, it would have been an obvious extension as taught by Sweatte.

Re claims 5, 8-10,15, and 18-20, Sweatte discloses that additional identification check points could be installed to perform ID verification, but does not disclose a second check point in a direction reverse from the first direction.

However, having a second check point in a direction reverse is just merely a duplication of element.

It would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to install a second check point in a direction reversed from the first direction to identify individuals leaving the facility so as to intercept wanted individuals. Furthermore, the specific position and direction of the check point falls within the realm of engineering design choice for meeting specific requirements, which does not provide any unexpected results.

Therefore, it would have been an obvious extension as taught by Sweatte.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Maeda et al, US Patent No. 5,987,420, disclose a reservation media issuing system using fussy logic.
